

I WILL REMEMBER

My husband and I had gone through a very difficult financial state. Despite our tithing & offering, the floodgate of heaven wasn't pouring down blessings and nothing was working in our favor.

I began to feel that God wasn't listening to our prayers and found myself descending into despair. Going to bed and waking up with our finances on my mind. Tried finding answers in the word, prayer, and fasting, but nothing worked. What made it more difficult, I was still ministering and encouraging ladies, as I spoke at prayer breakfasts', luncheons, etc..., telling them about the goodness of the Lord and no matter what they're going through, hold onto God, yet it had become difficult for me to hold onto God. It's like, how can I tell God's people, He will supply your need, when mine wasn't being supplied, or say, delight yourself in Him and He'll give you the desires of your heart, when I've done that and ain't nothing happening for me!

Well at my lowest point, I opened my bible, and the Holy Spirit drew my eyes to Ps. 77:1-12 which told me to "remember the works of the Lord."

When the strong winds blow, rocking you from side to side, and turbulent storms beat you down, you've got to reach deep within and tell yourself that because of what God has already brought me through in times past and despite what I'm going through now, I will still "talk of His doings." May not feel good right now, but I remember You healed me before, therefore I will still say, "my God is a healer." May not have a dime in my pocket, but I remember You provided for me before, therefore I will still say, "my God is a provider." That man walked out on me, but I remember You held me together, therefore I will still say, "my God is the strength of my life."

No matter what you may be going through, His word is still the truth and all you've got to do is say, "I will remember!"
